ROACH'S RAFT RETARDED BY AN ALLEGED CRANK'S CRANKY PIN.

The Dispatch Boat Didn't Sport to suit the Government's Crew—Capt. Couch and the Oklahoma Boomers Waiting—The Northwest War.

New York, May 14.—The new dispatch boat Dolphin, which the government declined to take off John Roach's hands, made another failure in her second attempt to demonstrate that she can do what the contract for her construction calls for—show 2,000 collective indicated horse power for six consecutive hours. For the second time her engine proved inadequate, and a ship load of government officers and invited guests was left tossing helplessly at anchor in the sound. She started from Roach's ship yard, Capt. Lewis, of the Military line, in charge as the builder's representative. There came Capt. Belknap and Commander Evans of the navy and Heron, Winslow, special board to supervise the trip.

Chief Engineers Kierstedt, Thomson and Ziegler, of the navy, were also present for duty in assisting the board to find out how much power the engine developed. Mr. Roach also went with the party. For the first hour the boat went on splendidly. The vessel steamed past Riker's Island at a moderate rate. Passing Steamer's honor her crew cheered her. The soldiers at Fort Schuyler waved their caps. The sea was smooth and the weather splendid. John Roach rubbed his hands gleefully.

From Kentucky the boat was started off at full speed. She flew along for an hour. The guests and members of the board were moved and more actual under the influence of rapid motion and bracing breeze. As the hands of the new clock passed noon the guests began to think of lunch. John Roach was ready for it. At 12:30 the guests were complimenting Mr. Roach on his work when the speed of the vessel began to slacken. Roach hurried toward the engine room. He came back with a dubious countenance. A forward crank pin, directly under the high pressure piston, had become overheated and it was necessary to stop or repair it. Mr. Roach was sorry, but took the mishap philosophically, and explained that it was an accident which might happen on the last regulated steamship. Of course this ended the present trial, but he hoped to be able to make a more successful one within two or three days.

It would only take a short time to repair the damage. The Dolphin had been running just one hour and six-quarters. She dropped her anchor about opposite Bridgeport. After five hours weary waiting the steamer's prow was headed toward the dock. When she came into the harbor she and dropped her passengers at the foot of Twenty-eighth street.

COUCH'S CHATTER.

What the Oklahoma Boomer Has to Say About the Situation.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 14.—Capt. W. L. Couch, the Oklahoma leader, spent the day in this city with the widow of the late Capt. Payne, who came here to look after some insurance matters, returning to Caldwell in the evening where the colony is camped.

Speaking of the condition of the colony he said it was numbered about two hundred men, the rest having returned to their homes to await the action of the president.

"Certain parties," he said, "in order to make capital out of our conservatism, said that we had disbanded. This is not true. The colonists, relying upon the good faith of the administration, have gone home to await the result of the negotiations to be held with the Indians. They are prepared to assemble at a moment's notice."

"You are sanguine as to the outcome of the negotiations?"

"I am, if the commission authorized by congress is aggressive. It is about time the administration was doing something. The order excluding the cattlemen has never been rescinded, although the treaty stipulates that it should be rescinded."

"You are merely waiting to see what the president is going to do, say, if he does not 'fire' the 'barons' after a reasonable time shall elapse, we shall claim the privilege of the cattlemen and attempt to enter the disputed territory again. I have just written Secretary Lamm about this matter, but have received no reply as yet."

"Do you think further legislation by congress is necessary before the territory can be opened up?"

"No, I do not. The last congress authorized the president to open negotiations with the Indians, and I think it is reasonable to doubt a satisfactory treaty can be obtained. We would not have to await the confirmation of the treaty, but to take it on the Indian and let it stand."

REBELS ROUTED.

Another Victory for Middleton and the Arkansas Forces.

CLARK'S COUNSEL, May 14.—Benton has fallen. The rebels have fled, driven from the ridge and the Arkansas army is pursuing them. The Arkansas army has been victorious in the battle of Benton. The Arkansas army has been victorious in the battle of Benton.

Later Riel sent an answer thinking Gen. Middleton for his humane promises, to save the women and children, but afterwards, as the general attack was just being made, he sent another messenger and says: "I do not like war, but I will not let you see me massacre the prisoners in our hands." The general in reply told him to gather the women and children into one house and they would not be fired upon.

A Dignitary of the Porte Gives His Opinion on Central Asia—Affairs in France. The Dynamiter's Trial—Sunny Italy—Foreign Affairs.

Constantinople, May 14.—It is not often one can get Turkey to talk politics. They know not where their observations may be carried, and, mindful of the proverb about silence being golden, nothing more than "I know not" or "Yes" or "No," can be got from them in answer to an inquiry about the prospect of war or an Anglo-Turkish alliance. However, a correspondent met a personal friend of the Sultan in a few minutes' stroll through the city. He was anxious for news, which led to a long conversation. He observed: "Whatever others may think, England need not fear Russia if she turns her foreign policy in the right direction. England can render herself as powerful in Central Asia as not only Russia but even France. In Afghanistan England has another Caucasus, which, worked properly, could never be occupied by a Russian. If the Circassians of the Western Caucasus, with the little help we were able to afford, could keep the Russians out of the Caucasus, the Caucasus would be a good deal more secure. The Caucasus would be a good deal more secure. The Caucasus would be a good deal more secure."

A BAD SUICIDE.

Mrs. Ada Pershing, of Pittsburgh, shoots herself on Account of Her Husband.

PITTSBURGH, May 14.—The suicide of Mrs. Ada Pershing, a lovely bride of six weeks, and the wife of the late president of the Pittsburgh female college, has created the greatest sensation of the year. The marriage was celebrated in the city of Pittsburgh. She was a beautiful woman, and her husband was a well-known figure in the city. She was a devoted wife and mother. She was a devoted wife and mother. She was a devoted wife and mother.

"DARLING WILL! Today is my nineteenth birthday, to-day I die. You deserted me. I cannot live without you. I forgive you."

Mr. Frank J. Langdon, Ada's father, says he will shoot Pershing in sight. He suspects that Pershing thought he was marrying money, and finding that he was determined not to give the girl a dowry, he deserted her.

CATTLE MEN'S WAR.

A Herd of 6,000 Head Forbidden Northward—Hooded Antelope.

AN ARIZONA DISPATCH, dated June 9, says in receipt of information that 6,000 head of cattle purchased in South Texas by Abner Taylor & Co., and now en route to the Indian Territory, have been stopped at Harrold, Wichita county, by North Texas cattlemen, and forbidden to proceed further.

The cattlemen claim that the cattle belong to a company of rangers located near Harrold for protection, alleging that armed men would resist their passage through the country. The rangers deny the charge, and are general for instructions, and were ordered to respond promptly to any call made upon them by the civil authorities, to whom the men in charge of the cattle were referred for aid and assistance. If they refuse or fail the government will invoke the militia power of the state, and the cattle and their drivers will be arrested when the drive is attempted.

DESPERADOES AT WORK.

They Kill a Sheriff and Wound a Farmer.

BONHAM, Tex., May 14.—Sheriff Ragdale, of this, Fannin county, was killed at a point six miles south of here while attempting to arrest Sam and Eli Dyer and other desperadoes.

The sheriff, accompanied by a posse of forty citizens, had traced the desperadoes to a point near here. While the posse was remaining behind, the sheriff and a farmer named Buchanan approached the but and summoned the desperadoes. He was answered with a volley from the desperadoes' Winchester rifles. Sheriff Ragdale was killed and Buchanan seriously injured. One of the Dyer's desperadoes was killed and three armed men have left here to capture the entire gang. A report later in the day states that the gang has been surrounded in a grove near the scene of the fight.

Little Rock, Ark., May 14.—The interest in the celebrated trial of Miss Harris against the people of Hot Springs, which subsided after the small damages given on Friday last, was revived by the plaintiff. His attorneys filed the following motion in court:

"In the circuit court of the United States for the Eastern district of Arkansas, M. C. Harris vs. the people of Hot Springs. The undersigned plaintiff moves the court for a new trial in said case for the following reasons:

"Because the verdict is against the evidence and against the weight of the evidence."

"Because the verdict is against the law and contrary to the rulings of the court."

"Because the damages assessed by the jury are totally inadequate and contrary to the law and evidence, and not more than one-half of the actual damages proved by the plaintiff."

An Inmate Mother's Act.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 14.—Mrs. Hiram Packer, residing near Little, left her home taking five children with her. She stated that she was going for flowers, but proceeded at once to Little creek, about a half mile from the house. She then threw down three of the children by throwing them into the creek, which is very deep at this point. The little ones were rescued by the oldest boy, who is but twelve years of age. The mother then sent the boy home with two children and while he was gone she jumped into the creek with the last child. All were drowned and the bodies recovered. The woman has been of unusual mind for some years.

LEADING ITEMS OF INTEREST AT THE GOVERNMENT SEAT.

Minister Cox Says He Will Steem and Not Sell for the Golden Horn—Agricultural Chat—Delegations—"Criminal Negligence"—News Notes.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Mr. Cox says he cannot prevent the appeals of his friends to remain at home, but he thinks he has tried the wine press of legislation long enough to deserve a little rest. When the delegations come to Washington he is going to refer them to the president for explanation of his sense in selecting him as minister to Turkey. "I am not going to 'sail,'" said Mr. Cox to a friend. "I expect to 'steam' out of New York for the golden horn and get there in good time. I have been writing so much of late that my fingers are almost paralyzed. But I had a task to perform and have finished it."

"Do you think there will be much contest for the nomination in your district," was asked. "No; I think not. Some one of more than local celebrity will be nominated. Perhaps Mr. Potter; that is if there is any disagreement among the candidates."

The new commissioner of agriculture has established a bureau to be devoted to the investigation of all questions affecting dairy interests. It is said that his predecessor is the owner of one of the largest dairies in New England, and that the new commissioner also takes special interest in this branch of agriculture. Senator Plumb, of Kansas, says that when he heard that Mr. Coleman was appointed commissioner of agriculture he recalled the story told of a visitor to the new commissioner's farm. The guests were invited, after inspecting the shortness, to partake of the hospitalities of the farmhouse. "Help yourselves, gentlemen," said Mr. Coleman. "Here is milk and here is whisky; each costs me about the same per gallon."

A delegation of Indianaans, headed by Senator Voorhees and including all the democratic representatives-elect in the city and a number of state officers of that state, waited on the president by special appointment and urged the appointment of Mr. Charles Derby of Evansville, to a foreign mission. As they left a delegation of democrats from Maine had a pleasant talk with the president in regard to the federal offices in that state. They were unanimous that the republicans who have held offices so long in Maine should be relieved of that responsibility and that it should be placed on the democrats.

"Criminal Negligence."
WASHINGTON, May 14.—The more representative Dick Townsend thinks about the turn in the senatorial situation, the more emphatic he expresses himself. "It is worse than a disgrace," he said, "it is criminal. There ought to be some law by which the democratic party managers in that district could be punished for criminal negligence. Yes, I think that Gen. Logan will be elected to the senate. There are some of his own party opposed to him, but the outcome will be his return to the senate. And, by the way, this is the second time that such a thing has occurred in that district, Springfield's district. The first was about thirty-five years ago. The democrats had the fun that time. They gave out that they would make no contest. The whigs let things slide along. On the eve of the election the democrats sprung a ticket, and, leaving the whigs napping, defeated them. But the democrats did not get their senator. Lyman Trumbull was chosen, he going in as an independent candidate."

Fortifications Board.
WASHINGTON, May 14.—The president appointed the following named gentlemen as the board on fortifications as authorized by an act of congress:

Hon. Wm. C. Endicott, secretary of war, president of the board; Brig. Gen. S. V. Benson, Brig. Gen. John Newton, Lieut. Col. H. L. Abbott, Capt. Charles S. Smith, Commander W. T. Lamson, Commander C. F. Goodrich, Mr. Joseph Morgan, Jr., of Pennsylvania; Mr. Erasmus Corning, of New York, as the board which is to examine and report at what ports the fortifications or other defenses are most urgently required.

Reducing Forces.
NEW YORK, May 14.—In accordance with instructions from Secretary Whitney, Chief Constructor Minkens has discharged all the fourteen foremen in the construction department of the Brooklyn navy yard. Their places have not been filled.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Knott.
WASHINGTON, May 14.—The president did not receive many callers. About 4 o'clock he kept an appointment with Gov. Proctor Knott, of Kentucky. Gov. Knott spent the evening with the president.

Consul at Havre.
WASHINGTON, May 14.—The president has appointed Ferdinand F. Dufau, of New York, to be United States consul at Havre.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 14.—Nearly the entire business portion of Watraces, on the line of the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, was destroyed by fire. Ten business houses and their contents were burned. It is reported that two lives were lost in the fire. Loss fully $25,000.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The large brewery of M. Brand & Co., situated in Elston avenue, caught fire and was damaged to the extent of $100,000 before the flames were extinguished.

An Old Diego Dodge.
CHICAGO, Ill., May 14.—Frank Rotundo and Tony Musconillo, Italians, have been arrested on the charge of obtaining money by false pretenses. It is alleged that in collusion with George Albano, of Indianapolis, the prisoners collected 150 Italians in Chicago and offered them lucrative work on a railway, the positions to be given them upon the payment of $5.00 each. The squad of Italians went to the depot but were not able to find either of the prisoners.
